

MINISTERS TURN DOWN CONFERENCE BUREAU

NEXT MEETING AT NEW ALBANY

Wins Over Madison by Vote of 97 to 93 in Spirited Contest Thursday Afternoon.

MERITS OF CITIES PRESENTED

Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League Addresses Ministers
at Special Session.

Following a spirited discussion at the special business session at the Main Street Christian church yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, New Albany won the 1914 session of the Indiana M. E. conference from Madison by a vote of 97 to 93.

There is not generally much of a contest for the annual gathering among the cities represented in the conference, but this year it was different. The Trinity church of New Albany was the first to extend the invitation. The district superintendent, the Rev. W. H. Whitsett, of the New Albany district, who is retiring this year, represented the church in asking the conference to come next year.

The Rev. W. H. Thompson extended the invitation to the conference in behalf of the Trinity church in Madison and then the exemplification of merits of the two cities began. Each had its defenders. The scenery in and about Madison was portrayed as its one best asset. New Albany was represented as the third largest railroad center in Indiana, and on this based much of its contention for the conference. The Madison preachers said special arrangements could be made for a special train between Madison and Columbus to make connections better.

The Rev. Mr. Thompson of Madison said his city had entertained larger bodies that the conference and cited the fact that only a few years ago 2,800 soldiers were hosts there at the G. A. R. encampment. He, the Grace and West Madison churches,
as well as the other denominations
would co-operate with Trinity church
in acting as hosts.

DECLINES TO ADOPT REPORT

Conference Instead Receives and Orders Published Findings of Home Committee.

DISCUSSION IS AROUSED

Class of Eleven is Ordained and Bishop Speaks—Inference About Commission Wrong.

At the business session of the Indiana M. E. conference today the report of the permanent conference home committee, which was made yesterday, was received and ordered published in the minutes, but the conference refused to adopt the report,
although the committee stoutly recommended it. The conference continued the committee for another year.

This was conference claimants day
and a class of eleven young ministers who have completed the first two years of the course of study were ordained. The address was made by Bishop William F. Anderson.

At the opening of the business session this morning Bishop Anderson
made a statement in which he said that his work prefacing the appointment of a committee yesterday to represent the conference on the state
church commission to study the educational situation had been misinterpreted. He stated that the commission would not consider the union of the three or any two of the Methodist colleges in Indiana, although he declared he easily understood how his remarks might be misunderstood.

Bishop Anderson yesterday, before explaining the request of the other Indiana conferences, told of the union of two Methodist colleges in the same town in Ohio. He said he explained the situation in Indiana was not similar to this one. The commission, the Bishop declared, is to study the conditions with a view to bringing the qualifications up to the same standard, to articulate the studies and otherwise improve the situation.

HOSPITAL FOR ALL THE PEOPLE

Charles F. Coffin, General Secretary of Church Institution, Talks at Anniversary.

TELLS OF CAMPAIGN STARTED

Secretary of Church Temperance Society Speaks—A Plea For Superannuated Ministers.

The anniversaries of the Methodist hospital in Indianapolis and of the Church Temperance society were celebrated at last night's session of the Indiana M. E. conference at the St. Paul M. E. church. At the afternoon meeting the anniversaries of the Woman's Home Missionary Society and the Preachers' Aid and Veterans' Home society were observed.

The Rev. E. Deets Pickett, one of the secretaries of the Church Temperance Society, spoke at the anniversary of the society last night. He said he represented the society which believes the Methodist church can kill the liquor traffic. John Wesley said it was amazing that the sale of the poison should be legalized, he declared, and taking this stand with Wesley, the general conference has said the liquor traffic can not be legalized without sin.

"We are facing the proposition," Secretary Pickett said, "of giving up our business or killing the liquor traffic. We can never settle the vice question until we extract the liquor from it. Neither can we ever settle the race of labor problems until we settle the liquor problem."

He said a million are arrested annually for drunkenness in the United States and asked why the church should not be against that which takes so much of its raw material.
Alcohol makes the white corpuscles
drunk, he declared, germs run riot, and it has the same effect on the guardians of the mind and soul. Because of the vastness of the liquor business he said, the power which overthrows it must be vast.

The Rev. Mr. Pickett said the principle of prohibition had won its case because it had been vindicated by the courts and the people. When Congress shuts off its Sunday drinks,
he declared, we may see daylight ahead. The secretary said prohibition alone would not solve the problem. The people know what prohibition will and will not do, he asserted, even though the brewers are fortifying against the wave of public sentiment by impressing the public with the declarations that beer is healthy. It is not as nourishing as an egg, he said, even though the

DR. HILL TONIGHT.

A large crowd is desired at the conference meeting tonight at the Main Street Christian church, when Dr. John Wesley Hill of New York delivers the conference lecture, "Socialism, Its Perils to the Church." The local committee depends on the proceeds of this meeting to pay the expenses of entertainment and is especially desirous that there be a large audience.

BENNETT WAS ACQUITTED

Found Not Guilty of Illegal Sale of Liquor.

Willard Bennett, charged with the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor,
was found not guilty this afternoon
by special judge, Howard Barrett.
Bennett was arrested along with Greely Ferguson charged with selling liquor to Frank Vance. Ferguson was found guilty and fined $50 and costs by Mayor Black. The evidence in the case against Bennett did not show that he sold any liquor to Vance. The testimony showed that Vance gave Bennett $1.25 with which to buy some lunch and he did not mention anything about whiskey.
Special Judge Howard Barrett did not see that there was any case against Bennett and found him not guilty.

GRANT GREGG IS CITY CHAIRMAN

Republican Precinct Committeemen
Meet and Perfect Organization
For Coming Campaign.

WILL OPEN HEADQUARTERS

The Republican precinct committe-men met last night and perfected the Republican organization for the coming city campaign. Grant Gregg was selected as chairman, Noley Newkirk, secretary and Allan H. Blackledge, treasurer.

The meeting was held in the sheriff's office. The committeemen will meet again next Tuesday night when it is planned to set the date for the ward meetings. At the ward meetings delegates to the city convention will be selected. Mr. Gregg, the new city chairman, is well able to handle
the affairs of the party in the city.
He has been connected with politics here more or less for some time and was formerly city clerk.

The Republican headquarters will be opened the first of next week, the headquarters will be located in the rooms over Dr. Green's office.

C. H. & D. KILLS MAN NEAR LONGWOOD

Believed to Have Been Thomas Cullen of Near Connorsville—Body Cut to Shreds.

SUICIDE THEORY ADVANCED

A man believed to have been Thomas Cullen of near Connorsville, was killed by a C. H. & D. train
Wednesday night near Longwood.
The body was found yesterday morning by sectionmen, cut to shreds and scattered for a distance of sixty yards along the track. It was impossible to positively identify the man, but the coroner of Fayette county and people living in the neighborhood believe that it was Thomas Cullen.

He was last seen in Connorsville
about ten o'clock Wednesday night and is known to have gotten off a traction car at stop 37. Cullen was aware of the time of the trains on the C. H. & D. and suicide is hinted.
According to rumors he had talked suicide several times recently because of despondency and his death can hardly be accounted for on the theory of simple accident. Cullen was 60 years old.

LOCAL SUNDAY SCHOOL IN LEAD

Contest Between Christian Church
Here and One at Winchester, Ky., is Growing Warm.

SCORES NOW STAND 26 TO 24

Rushville Working Under Odds as Opponent Has Largest School
in Kentucky.

The Main Street Christian church
Sunday school is in the midst of a very exciting and strenuous attendance contest with the largest Sunday school in the state of Kentucky, the one at Winchester. This is the school where J. H. MacNeill is pastor. He having been formerly pastor here, adds increased interest to the contest here.

The contest was inaugurated by means of a challenge issued to the Winchester school on behalf of the Rushville school by Rev. Walter Frazee, whose home is here, but who is now engaged as state Sunday school superintendent of Kentucky. The Rushville school had short notice and had little idea of engaging in a contest with the largest school in another state, but are holding their own with remarkable tenacity.

The two schools have "see-sawed"
back and forth, sometimes one school holding the supremacy and sometimes the other by a slight margin of a few points.

The Winchester school seemed to have the advantage at first, but recently the Rushville school has awakened and is in the lead. Excitement is at fever heat in both schools and strenuous and diligent efforts are being made at both places to increase the results which count in the score.

Last Sunday Rushville won by a score of 4 to 3. If thirteen more persons had attended the local school, Rushville would have won the whole seven points. As it stands the score is now 26 to 24, and the Rushville enthusiasts are jubilant this week.
However, the famous Kentucky
fighting spirit is not to be discounted and local workers are fearful of next Sunday's result. It is needless to say that a vigorous appeal is being made to every member of the

JOE STEWART IS WANTED IN OHIO

Police Arrest Colored Man, Charged
With Burglary in Washington
Court House.

OUT OF JAIL ONLY FEW HOURS

George Dempsey of Newcastle is
"Fished" Out of Mill Race—
Is Fined by Mayor.

Joe Stewart, colored, wanted in Washington C. H., Ohio, was arrested here last night by Chief Mc-Allister and is being held awaiting the arrival of an officer from the Ohio city. He is wanted there on the charge of burglary. Stewart, who has been a character here for some time had had hard sailing in the past few weeks. He returned here yesterday from Shelbyville
where he just completed serving a sentence in jail for carrying concealed weapons.

Stewart was mixed up in the affair there fair week in which Claude Maxwell, "Alabam," played the leading role. Stewart helped Maxwell get away, according to the police and it was his revolver that was found on Stewart. For his trouble Stewart paid a ten days'
visit to the Shelby county jail and if all reports be true he has many more days staring him in the face.

The police in Washington C. H., have wanted Stewart for some time
on the larceny charge. Yesterday
Chief Manlove of Shelbyville received a letter from the officials there asking that they hold him until an officer arrived. Stewart was already on his way here and the police were notified. He was located very easily and Washington C. H., officials notified.

George Dempsey, giving his home
as Newcastle, came here last night from Connorsville with a life size package; fell in the mill race and eventually was fined one dollar and costs by Mayor Black. Dempsey lost his way last night and when found was in the mill race up to his waist.
He had wandered away from the public gaze and hit the race near the
I. & C. power house. People in this neighborhood fearing that he would

NO NEED FOR PREACHERS TO WORRY; STILL PLENTY OF CHICKENS LEFT

If Not They Can Draw From Their Own Number and Find a Suitable Menu.

CONFERENCE IS VERY UNIQUE

The Indiana Conference, more than three hundred strong, has invaded our little city, and the "Slaughter of Innocents" (chickens) is in daily progress at our tables. But these preachers are not as hungry as one might think, after all. Their own bill of fare is never meager, so long as they have their Bacon, Bean, Fish, Greene and Partridge on hand, and their Baker, Farmer, Gardner, Fisher, and Miller to provide additional good things.

In many other respects this Conference is most unique. It is remarkably free from the usual ills of humanity. It has never had more than two Akes and three Shakes. If it ever should Ketcham, its Couch-Mann is there to say "Rest easy. Do not be Cross. Send Patrick for the Priest. It is Moore than Likely he May give you some Ice for your Burns."

Far from ever being put to a Strain to get money, it is so Stout that by the combined ability of three Kings, a Pope, an Abbot, and a Noble, it has always been Abel to compel its Banker to Schell out. If necessary, it could call its Garrison across the Jordan to enforce its mandates.

But despite this fact, its Jeans Vest was not a very good Shield from the Storms that rose upon the Beach

Bishop Anderson for appointment a sary of the hospital last night.

TRAIN HITS COW.

Shelbyville Republican: A valuable cow belonging to Martin Hargrove, east of Gwynneville, was killed Tuesday by an express train on the C. H. & D. lines. The crew of the train thought that they had struck and killed a man and backed to the scene of the accident. They were greatly relieved to find that the victim was a cow. It was valued at sixty dollars.

LEGISLATOR IS SENT TO PRISON

He Refused to Answer Levy's Questions.

ANOTHER ALBANY SENSATION

Assemblyman Garrison, Who Recently Declared That Necessary Votes to Impeach Sulzer Were Bought, Was Arraigned Before Bar of House and
On Refusal to Amplify His Statement
Was Adjudged in Contempt.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Last night, while the state assembly was in session under a close call of the house, which permits the entrance but prohibits the exit of anyone from the assembly chamber, James C. Garrison, who put the assembly judiciary committee members to rout a couple of weeks ago, walked into the chamber and Assemblyman Levy at once drew up a resolution adjudging Garrison in contempt and summoning him before the bar of the house for punishment for persistently refusing to answer questions put to him by Mr. Levy as counsel for the committee which sought to get the facts upon which Mr. Garrison made a public statement that the votes of four of the assemblymen had been bought in order to get the necessary seventy-six votes in the assembly to adopt the Sulzer articles of impeachment.

Assemblyman Levy offered a resolution ordering Garrison's arrest. The adoption of the resolution required only a majority of those voting if a quorum was present, and not seventy-six votes, which is a majority of the 150 assemblymen. Chairman Levy immediately moved the adoption of the resolution, which after some debate, was done. The sergeant-at-arms of the assembly then produced Garrison before the bar of the assembly, but he still refused to answer.

Majority Leader Levy then presented a resolution directing the delivery of Garrison into the hands of the sheriff of Albany county, who is to keep him confined in the Albany county penitentiary until the final adjournment of the present session of the legislature, "unless sooner discharged by order of the assembly," which resolution was adopted by a vote of 89 to 3. The sergeant-at-arms at once ordered an auto to take Garrison to the penitentiary.

The assembly was in session seeking to add three sections to the articles of impeachment, but only seventy-four assemblymen who voted for impeachment were present, while the required number is seventy-six. The two new articles cover these two charges against the governor. First, usurpation, this charge being mainly based on the pardoning of Joseph G. Robin. Second, that Governor Sulzer has made inflammatory speeches "tending to bring the lawmakers of the state of New York into contempt." This article is modeled on the tenth article in the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson.

The high court of impeachment, which was organized yesterday to try William Sulzer, today heard the report of the committee on rules and procedure, and both sides are preparing for the long argument as to the right to try him, which will precede the taking of testimony.

MORE THAN FOUR DECADES

Had Separated These Brothers, Each
Thinking the Other Dead.

New York, Sept. 19.—Two gray-haired men whose faces shine with joy are objects of interest at the Hotel Astor, where both are guests. One of the men is Samuel Waldman of Berlin, who is on a tour of the world. The other is Franz Waldman of Sydney, Australia, who is in the United States on business. They are brothers, and until yesterday each had imagined for more than forty years that the other was drowned at sea in the shipwreck off the coast of Australia, which separated them in their young manhood. It was the merest chance that brought them together again after a lapse of more than four decades, in which both have grizzled and both have prospered as well.

LAID AT MILITANTS' DOOR

Suffragists Blamed For Another Costly Blaze in England.

London, Sept. 19.—"The Cedars" in the Theobald park estate at Waltham Cross, about fifteen miles from London, which was inherited by Admiral Sir Hedworth Lambton, the hero of Ladysmith, from Lady Meux on condition that he take the name of Meux, and which was leased recently by Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills of New York, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The house was unoccupied at the time and the police suspect the suffragettes of having caused the fire, but there is no direct evidence against them. Grove House, another mansion on the Meux estate, was burned down last year.

Concord Is "Fer" Thaw.
Concord, N. H., Sept. 19.—Concord's mayor, Charles J. French, called on Harry Thaw, the Matteawan fugitive, in the "crown room" of the Eagle hotel and extended Concord's hospitality, good will and sympathy.

BLOWS UP HOME

Maniac Calls Family From Beds
and Wrecks House.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 19.—In a fit of insanity Mack Hurst, fifty years old, a stone mason, blew up his home with dynamite about 3 o'clock this morning, killing himself and one daughter, fatally wounding two other daughters and demolishing the house. Mrs. Hurst, in some remarkable manner, escaped.

Mrs. Hurst says that the man awoke the family at 2 o'clock and told them all to gather in his bedroom.

After they had all entered he closed and locked the door and spoke only these five words:

"We will all die together."

Then he picked up a stick of dynamite which was lying on the floor near him, and threw it under the bed. Mrs. Hurst remembered nothing more until she came to consciousness at the home of a neighbor nearly an hour later.

The noise of the explosion awoke the whole city. The bodies of Hurst and his dead daughter were found in a mass of debris at the rear of the home. The other two daughters were in another part of the ruins.

UNEQUAL FIGHT WITH TWO ARMED ROBBERS

Two Grand Rapids Clerks Killed
and Another Wounded.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 19.—With revolvers drawn, two robbers entered the jewelry store of J. J. Thompson here last evening, commanded the clerks to throw up their hands, and when they refused, opened fire. John A. Thompson and Ed Smith fell dead and Paul Townsend was probably fatally wounded. The bandits escaped.

The three victims were alone in the store when the robbers entered. Townsend, who was taken to a local hospital, was able to tell the authorities only a few words concerning the tragedy. The clerks were placing watches and jewels in their cases for the night when the men, masked, entered and demanded that Townsend, the watch repairer, throw up his hands.

Townsend refused, tried to grapple with the men, and was shot down. A bullet penetrated his neck. He believes that the other employees then rushed to his aid and were killed.

The jewelry store is almost in the heart of the business district and pedestrians passed by while the robbers were within. One person informed the police that he heard three shots fired.

Policemen near by also were attracted by the shooting, but the robbers fled before they arrived.

GIRL MAY LOSE EYESIGHT

Can of Beans Explodes in Face of This Young Woman.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 19.—The explosion of a can of baked beans in the kitchen of her home may cost Miss Julia Bruce of Lafayette her eyesight. Miss Bruce had placed the can of beans in a pan of boiling water to heat them preparatory to opening the can. The water boiled away and the liquid inside the can reached the boiling point. Steam thus formed caused the can to blow up and discharge the hot contents in Miss Bruce's face.

CURRENCY BILL PASSES HOUSE

Vote On the Measure Was 286
to 84.

REAFFIRMED GOLD STANDARD

By a Still More Emphatic Vote Than the Above the House Adopted an Amendment Maintaining the Provisions of the Law of 1900 Declaring Single Gold Standard as the Basis of the American Monetary System.

Washington, Sept. 19.—The house of representatives, by a vote of 286 to 84, passed the administration currency bill after having by a still more emphatic vote amended the measure so that the reaffirmation of the bill of 1900, whereby the single gold standard was adopted as the basis of American money, was included. The sound money amendment won by a vote of 288 to 69, or more than four to one.

Only one Progressive, Lindbergh of Minnesota, and a single Republican, Roberts of Nevada, voted against the amendment. Following the action of the house in accepting the gold standard amendment, a record vote was demanded by the Progressives on the motion to amend the bill by including the anti-interlocking directorate provision.

By a vote of 268 to 100 the amendment was defeated. The house then took up the bill itself. Representative Glass moved the passage of his own measure and the voting began. Only three members of the majority voted against the bill on its final passage. They were Representatives Calloway of Texas, Witherspoon of Mississippi and Elder of Louisiana.

Speaker Clark's announcement of the vote was greeted with prolonged applause and cheers. Immediately thereafter Representative Underwood of Alabama said that it was his hope that the conference report on the tariff bill would be ready next week, but there was no possibility for the report earlier than Monday.

ARREST CHECKS HONEYMOON

Happy Young Couple Confess Theft of $300 Livery Rig.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 19.—The honeymoon trip of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Withrow of Los Angeles, Cal., came to an abrupt ending here when they were arrested charged with stealing a horse and buggy worth $300 from Frank Glass, a liveryman at Huntington. The young couple were married last June and had come east on their honeymoon, but were robbed of their funds in Kansas City and landed in Huntington broke. They procured the horse and buggy to come to Whitley county to visit their relatives, and while in this city tried to sell the outfit to Ernest Born for a mere trifle. Born became suspicious and notified the officers. The arrest of the young couple followed and they made a confession. Withrow is twenty-seven years old and his wife twenty-two. She says that she taught school in New Mexico for two years before she met Withrow. The young man, who was born and reared in this county, has a host of relatives residing hereabouts, and they expect to help him out of his present trouble if possible.

SOLDIERS UNDER INQUIRY

Rigid Investigation Into Assault Upon Aged Woman.

New London, Conn., Sept. 19.—Six hundred soldiers, representing half a dozen companies of the United States artillery corps stationed at Ft. Wright, Fisher's Island, New York, were called together unexpectedly for roll call and inspection by Colonel Davis in an endeavor to ascertain who was guilty of an assault upon Mrs. Emily Sears, seventy-two years old, who has lived on the island for about thirty-five years.

Mrs. Sears and her two grandchildren were alone in the Sears home when a soldier appeared and attacked the woman, strangling and assaulting her. Of the several hundred soldiers examined every one passed muster, but the investigation is still in progress.

HAD TO BECOME MURDERER

Woman Refugee From Mexico Relates Horrid Experience.

New York, Sept. 19.—"I had to become a murderer to protect my life in Mexico," declared Mrs. Lillian Gonzales, the American wife of a Mexican planter, who has just landed here with other refugees.

"I had to shoot many times and shoot to kill. It was the only way to escape falling into the hands of the bandits. I cannot bear to go into details. My experiences were too horrible to be repeated. I did not want to become a murderer, but I had to take human life in self-defense," she said.

Unidentified Body Is Found.
Evansville, Ind., Sept. 19.—The body of an unidentified man, about fifty years old, was found in the river here by a fisherman. There are no indications of violence on the body and a clipping of an editorial on the suicide epidemic existing here a short time ago leads to the belief that he committed suicide.

Obituary.

Mrs. Clara Murphy, daughter of Joseph and the late Emily Harton, was born July 10, 1869, and was promoted into the higher life which is entered by way of the grave Aug. 21, 1913. She was 44 years, 1 month and 11 days old.

Clara Harton was united in marriage with Jesse Murphy, June 12, 1899. One daughter, Hazel came into their home. She with her father survive. Wm. E., Chas. H., & O. M. Harton and Mrs. Maggie Murphy, Mrs. Ida Oliver and Mrs. Ollie Friend together with their father also survive.

Mrs. Murphy united with the church in a revival meeting held by A. W. Conner at the Allen School house. She became a member of the Main street, Christian church at Rushville but about three years ago transferred her membership to the Little Flat Rock church of which she was a consistent member at the time of her death.

Mrs. Murphy was not only a church member in name but in life was all that the term implies. She was a practical Christian allowing the principles of her faith to find expression in her words and deeds. Thus theory crystallized in life. As a neighbor she was agreeable and kind; as a church member she was always ready to do her full share of its work. But it was in the home—she was a lover of home—that she was at her best. Faithful wife, sacrificing mother, loyal daughter and sister she was true to all her relationships.

Truly it is a comfort indeed to know that these relationships are not broken forever but only severed for a few brief years. The loved is but lost awhile. Some time after the night is spent, its portentous shadows gone, the new day will appear, day of eternity with its renewed relationships and its joys forever. When these earthly homes of ours are mouldered to the dust there is a home, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens, where reunion grand and joyous will be enjoyed with those gone on before. A precious one from us is gone, A place we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled. God in His wisdom has recalled, The boon His love had given; And though the body slumbers here The soul is safe in heaven.

DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW MODERN ENGLISH DICTIONARY WITH LATEST UNITED STATES CENSUS:

This most convenient and latest of all Dictionaries is based on the principles embodied in Noah Webster's Dictionary, printed from new type and profusely illustrated in color, revised and brought right up to today by American and English authorities, designed to meet every demand of a modern, reliable Dictionary.

It includes all words in the English language that do not properly belong to a Dictionary of Technical Terms. In fact, its recent publication and careful revision by the greatest authorities in the world enable it to define and treat a large number of words of recent coinage that cannot be found in any other Dictionary, no matter how cumbersome and pretentious.

Surprising results are obtained in looking up the spelling, pronunciation and definition of a host of words which have been incorporated into our language only yesterday, as it were. Take, for instance, Volplane, Aeroboot, Pylon, Cavitation, Biplane, etc., introduced as a result of recent aeronautical activity—also such new words as Brainstorm, Billiken, Cordite, Denatured, Dunnite, Joy Ride, etc.—also Okapi, an animal allied to the Giraffe—also Hookworm, Lettergram, Nickelodeon, Stovaine, Hangar, Equilibrator, etc.

Thus the evidences of painstaking compilation are found on every hand.

The question was raised as to whether Madison could entertain the wives of the ministers. This question was not answered satisfactorily and it was said that New Albany could accommodate all of the wives who wished to attend. Jeffersonville came to the aid of New Albany because New Albany helped her in entertaining the conference last year. The Rev. H. C. Clippinger is pastor of the Trinity church at New Albany.

On the motion of the Rev. John Poucher of Petersburg the conference claimants were referred to the committee on conference relations.

The Revs. L. F. Dimmitt, C. E. Bacon of Vincennes and John S. Ward of Shelbyville were appointed a committee on fire insurance.

The Rev. J. W. Duncan, pastor of the Capitol Avenue church in Indianapolis, as chairman of the committee appointed in the morning to investigate the necessity of changing the manner of appointing and terms of the standing committee members, suggested that the committee be given until next year to report, and the conference concurred.

The Rev. E. F. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-saloon league, was given five minutes by the bishop to speak to the conference. He told of a meeting of the temperance forces of the United States, November 10 to 13 to arrange for an advance on Congress. One thousand and picked men, he said, would advance on the national law making body at the opening of the next session in December and ask for a joint resolution from the House and Senate which shall be passed on to the states to vote on to determine whether a prohibition amendment shall be tacked on to the United States constitution.

He urged the ministers to advise in their respective pulpits that the voters at the next state election cast their ballots for a constitutional convention which would be held, if favored by a majority, in the first 120 days of 1916. This would give the temperance forces, he declared, the opportunity to help pick the delegates who will redraft the constitution. He declared it would be the brewers advertise it so, not so nourishing as a rotten egg.

Charles W. Fairbanks was unable to attend and Charles F. Coffin of Indianapolis, general secretary and general manager of the campaign, spoke at the anniversary of the Methodist hospital. He spoke of the origin of the hospital, which began with an investment of $4,000 and is now worth $375,000. He was applauded when he said he had never accepted money for acting as general secretary and counsel for the hospital.

At a recent meeting of the board, Mr. Coffin said, it was discovered for the eight months previous the hospital had been running behind $1,000 a month. On investigation it proved in the five months previous $17,000 had been expended for patients who could not pay. He declared he never wanted the hospital before the people as an institution which is paying its way for then it would be reduced to the plane of a private undertaking and would not be in keeping with the spirit of the church.

He emphasized the fact that Indianapolis was not the chief beneficiary of the hospital, but that a majority of the patients were from other places in Indiana. He said the people are coming to understand the hospital is a state institution. In the last five months, Mr. Coffin said, 16,101 days of treatment had been given. The nurses received $3 a month for three years after the first three months. Although he regretted to say, Mr. Coffin declared 99 per cent. of the complaints came from patients who had paid nothing for treatment.

He explained that the campaign for $250,000 relates now only to Indianapolis. He said it was not expected that amount would be raised in Indianapolis, but that similar cam-paigus for funds would be conducted in the conferences. Mr. Coffin told of a plan to build a constituency of the future. The Sunday schools of the state will be canvassed and every child who gives $1 toward the building fund will get his or her name on the roll of honor in the hospital. He said it was not a scheme to raise ready money, but to connect a chord of sympathy in the thousands of young hearts.

Aside from the educational institutions, Mr. Coffin declared the hospital to be the largest single interest the church has. He said there must be a campaign for funds all the time because people are continually getting sick. He told the ministers a change in the methods of raising funds would be tried. Mr. Coffin believes the pulpits should be used as centers of instruction, but that a subscription should not be taken in a church. He said ministers have their problems and they should not be bothered. He appealed for their sympathy and support in the undertaking.

Joseph L. Stout, the assistant secretary of the hospital, and Dr. J. M. McLean Moulder, the superintendent, spoke briefly. The Indianapolis Y. M. C. A. quartet sang last night. Oren Holmes, who formerly lived here, is a member of this quartet.

Speaking at the anniversary of the Preachers' Aid and Veterans' Home society in the afternoon, Marvin Campbell of South Bend made a very forceful plea for the superannuated ministers. He deducted the conclusions that the retired ministers should be paid, that there was a willingness to pay and that they would never get their share until some method is arranged. He is president of a bank and of two manufacturing institutions in South Bend and took the attitude of a business man in his address. Mr. Campbell is treasurer of the Conference Board of Claimants.

Mr. Campbell suggested that the Methodist laymen form a society to correspond with the Preachers' Aid and Veterans' Home Society, the sole purpose of which should be to get funds to pay the deficit in the superannuated ministers' fund. He declared that under the management of the laymen every cent due the claimants could be collected, because there would then be method to the procedure.

Mr. Campbell contended that figures show the superannuated ministers in the Indiana conference receive only 63 per cent. of their allotment, those in the North Indiana conference 65 per cent and those in the Northwest Indiana conference only 71 per cent.

"The secretaries of the various boards and branches of the church," he continued, "come before the conference and in a methodical way make pleas for their assessment, but there is no one to plead the cause of the retired preacher. They spent their life pleading for all these causes, with never a thought of themselves. I plead for method, not for money."

Mr. Campbell asserted that an average of 55 per cent. of the benevolence in all of the Indiana conferences go for ministerial support. He declared he doubted the right of Methodists to spend over $407,000 each year without the superannuated minister getting his share. He declared they could get their share by not taking any money from the funds can be raised. He pointed out that the superannuated ministers in Canadian conferences get their claims as regularly and as surely as do the war veterans in the United States.

He said there were two things to consider: were the claims right and just from a religious standpoint and from an economic standpoint? His deductions were that, since a church is of no value without a preacher, it is due the superannuated for his past work that he be given what is appointed to him. Economically, he declared, it is good business judgment to take care of the retired preachers.

"I plead that this conference not be adjourned," Mr. Campbell said, "until this obligation be met. The laymen can do it and all you need do is to call on them. I am told the Aid Society now has an endowment of $50,000 or $60,000 and that it is working for an endowment of $800,000. That will give each superannuated preacher $1 a day. Every present one will be dead before this endowment is reached. Do not neglect the righteous poor while waiting for the death of the Godly rich. Every department is conducted on a budget basis, why shouldn't this one be?"

It was moved and adopted by the conference that the address of Mr. Campbell be printed in pamphlet form and distributed in all of the Indiana conferences, and he was giving a rising vote of thanks.

Dr. Benjamin F. Haywood of Washington, superintendent of a church hospital there, made an earnest plea for workers in the home mission field at the anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary society yesterday afternoon. This meeting was held while the special business session of the conference was taking place at the Christian church.

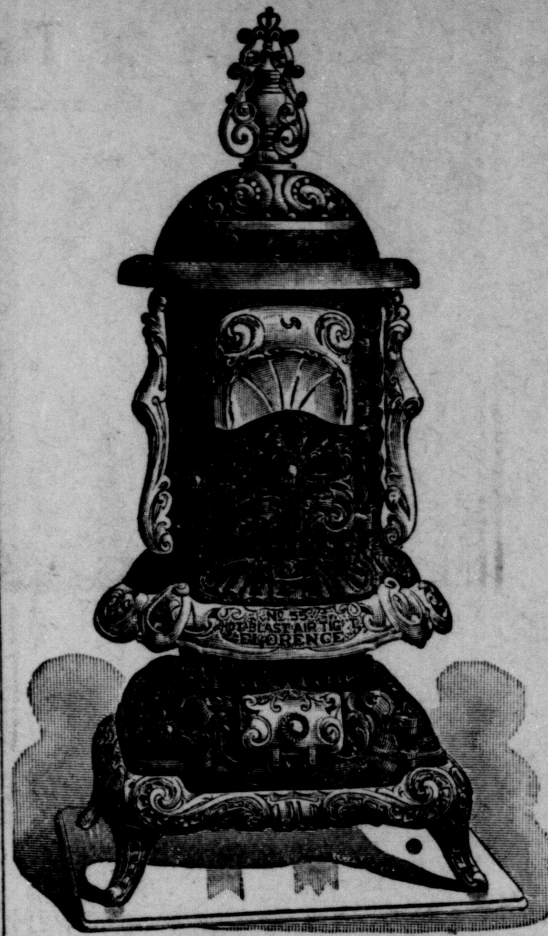

Dr. Frank B. Stockdale spoke again yesterday afternoon at the Hour of Prophecy and Preaching at four o'clock. The reputation of Dr. Stockdale as a deep thinker and a gifted talker has spread not only among the ministers attending the conference, but also among Rushville people, who packed the church at Dr. Stockdale's second appearance.

A number of visitors were introduced to the conference yesterday just before it adjourned at 12:15 o'clock. Among them were Dr. Levi Gilbert of Cincinnati, editor of the Western Christian Advocate; C. E. Line, Somerville Light, B. S. Hollopeter, W. B. Freeland, all district superintendents of the North Indiana district; P. C. Curnick and A. H. Lawrence of the Northwest Indiana conference; W. A. Deaton, of the West Ohio, conference and M. S. Rollins of the Lexington conference.

DO IT NOW

Rushville People Should Not Wait
Until it is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms often give place to chronic disorders and the sufferers may slip gradually into some serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home:

M. Connor, 1001 North Harrison street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results and am glad to recommend them. I had backache and pains through my loins and my kidneys were irregular in action. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I used them. They stopped the pains and regulated the kidney action."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE ISLAND
OF THE STAIRS

Being a True Account of Certain Strange and Wonderful Adventures
of Master John Hampdon, Seaman, and Mistress Lucy Wilberforce, Gentlewoman, In the Great South Seas.

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Copyright, 1912, by Cyrus Townsend Brady

I delivered my little mistress to her woman, who came at my call, and then I summoned the butler and steward and told them what had happened. In a moment all was confusion. They brought the body of Sir Geoffrey back to the castle, which was no longer his. As the duke had said, it was mortgaged to its full value. Everything that he could get his hands on had been sacrificed to his passion for play.

After the inquest and after a due interval for decent respect for the dead there was a great funeral, of course, during which what little ready money there was available was of necessity spent. The gentry came for miles around. Even Luftdon was there in the background, although Arcester had the decency to keep away. I was there, too, finding a place among the upper servants of the household. I happened to be immediately back of Mistress Lucy. From under her veil she shot a forlorn, grateful look at me as she came in.

Sir Geoffrey, except Mistress Lucy, was the last of his race. The brave, fine old stock had at last been reduced to this slender slip of a girl. Fifth or sixth, save of the most distant, she had none, nor did she enjoy much acquaintance. She had never been formally introduced to society. Sir Geoffrey had loved her and had been kind enough to her in his careless, magnificent way, but she had been left much alone since the death of her mother some years before, and she had grown up under the care of governesses and tutors. The neighboring gentry had assembled with much show of sympathy, but I knew that Mistress Lucy felt very much alone, and I rather gloried in the position which made me, humble though I was, her friend.

It was over soon enough—the show and parade. No one spoke to me save Lord Luftdon.

"You seem to be a man of sense, Master Hampdon," he whispered, drawing me apart after it was all over, "and I noticed the way Mistress Wilberforce looked at you when she first came in. I have still unspent some of the proceeds of our last bout at the table with her father that could be conveyed to the lady, and—"

"She would burn her hand off rather than accept anything," said I promptly. "You speak with authority?" he asked, looking at me strangely.

"I have known her from a child," said I, "and her father before her. It is not in the breed to take favors, and—"

"But this is restitution, although we won it fairly. Sir Geoffrey was the most reckless and even the most foolish gambler I ever played with. We took advantage of that, but there was no cheating, no, as I am a gentleman." "Under the circumstances, then," said I, "there is nothing further to be said."

"But what will the poor girl do?" he persisted.

I shook my head. I did not know how to answer that question, for I did not know what she would do. Nevertheless I was touched and pleased with his interest. The man had some good in him still. Association with such a scoundrel as Arcester had not yet wholly ruined him.

"It is too late to make reparation now, although the wish does you honor, my lord."

"Well, Hampdon, if you have a chance to tell her what I wanted," he said, "please do. I should do it myself," he continued, "only since her reputation by that blackguard Arcester she will not admit me to speech. If I were a bit younger and not so confidently in debt I would marry the woman myself."

"She is meet for a better man, my lord," said I, exactly as I had answered the duke.

He looked at me curiously for a moment and then laughed loudly.

"Doubtless," he said, "you may tell her that too."

With that he turned on his heel and walked away, and I saw no more of him. I stood about on the terrace until the last of the gentry had gone. My lady spoke to me:

"Master Hampdon," she began warily, "will you come into the house? Master Ficklin, the lawyer, is here waiting to go over my father's papers with me. You have stood by me manfully, your people and my people have been"—she stopped a moment, "friends," she added, "for 500 years. I have no one else with whom to counsel. Come with me."

CHAPTER III.

In Which I Deliver a Letter.

SIR GEOFFREY'S will, as Master Ficklin read it, was a simple affair. It left everything of which he died possessed to his daughter. Unfortunately, he died possessed of nothing. The document was mere waste paper. Everything was mortgaged, every family portrait even. Mistress Lucy appeared to have no legal right to anything in or out of the castle, save the clothes she wore.

"The point is," Mistress Lucy said, as Master Ficklin bowed deferentially toward her, "that I have nothing?"

"Nothing from your father, madam."

"But my mother's estate?"

"I regret to say," said Master Ficklin, "that most of it has been converted into money and lost by your father. There is left in my hands, madam, only a matter of some £2,000, out at interest, which you, being now of full age—"

"I was eighteen on my last birthday."

"Exactly, so that it is at your present disposal."

"What shape is it in?"

"It is invested in consols."

"Can they be realized upon?"

"Instantly."

"To advantage?"

"Most certainly."

"I thank you, Master Ficklin, for your provident care of my little fortune. It is most unexpected," she faltered.

"Believe me, Mistress Lucy, it is a happiness to do anything for you," said the old attorney, rising and gathering up his papers and bowing low before her. "You may command me in everything. A temporary loan or—"

"Thank you, Master Ficklin," said Mistress Lucy; "you touch me greatly, but I need nothing at present. My father made me an allowance and generally paid it. It was a generous one, and, living alone as I did, I did not spend it. I have a few hundred pounds in my own name at the bank, and with that for temporary use and my mother's legacy I shall lack nothing."

"But where will you live, Mistress Lucy?"

"It matters little," she answered listlessly.

"My sister and I," said the old attorney, "live alone in the county town. The house is large. If you would accept our hospitality until your future is decided we should be vastly honored."

"I accept your kindly proffer most thankfully," was her reply. "I have been invited to various homes here and there in the county, but I prefer to go to you."

"Good," said Master Ficklin briskly. "That is settled then. I am empowered by those who hold the mortgage to tell you that the pictures of your father or mother or anything strictly personal they waive their claim to."

"Thank you," said Mistress Lucy. "I shall take but small advantage of their generosity."

"I know that," answered Master Ficklin, "and now I will return to the town. If you will be ready about 6 o'clock" (it was then about 2) "I will return and fetch you to our home."

"I shall be ready. Goodbye."

The little lawyer bent over her hand and left the room. I sat dumb and silent during the whole interview, although I had listened to everything with the deepest interest. As usual, it was she who broke the silence when we were alone again.

"Master Hampdon," she began, "to what a sorry pass am I reduced! What shall I do now?"

"My lady," said I, "the sorriest part of the pass to which you have been brought is that you have in me such a poor counselor, a rough sailor, but one who would, nevertheless, give his heart's blood to promote your welfare, or do you any service."

Now, as I said that I laid my hand on the breast of my coat, and as I bent awkwardly enough toward her—I could not even bow as gracefully as the little attorney just departed—I felt the paper which I had taken from Sir Geoffrey's hand and which I had entirely forgotten in the hurry and confusion of the days that had followed his death. I stood open mouthed with surprise and shame at my careless forgetfulness, and stared at her.

"What is it?" she asked, instantly noting my amaze.

"I am a fool, madam, a blundering fool," said I, drawing forth the paper. "here is a letter addressed to you which I should have delivered at once," I continued, extending it toward her.

She tore open the envelope as she spoke and drew forth a letter, unfolded it and there dropped from it a little piece of parchment which I instantly picked up and extended to her, but she was so engrossed in the letter that she did not see my action and paid no attention to my outstretched hand.

I looked at the parchment I held in my hand. It was evidently the half of a larger sheet which had been torn in two. The right half was in my possession. A glance showed me that it was a part of a rudely drawn map, apparently of an island, although lacking the other half of that I could not be quite certain. It was lettered in characters which were very old and quaint, and some figures in the upper left hand corner gave a latitude. The outlines of the map and the letters and figures were all very dim and faded.

My lady's letter was a short one, for she looked up from it presently, her eyes filled with tears, the first I had seen there, and for that reason I was glad she should enjoy this relief. I suppose the fact that she was so alone and had no one else induced her to confide in me. At any rate she extended the paper to me.

"Read it," she said. "'Tis my father's last word to me."

I took it from her, and this is what I read:

My Dear Lucy—As an ancient king of France once said, "Everything is lost but honor," and that trembles in the balance. I have speculated, gambled, tempted fortune, first because I loved it and at last hoping to win for you. But everything has gone wrong. You are penniless. Even your mother's fortune, of which she foolishly made me trustee, has followed its own. Master Ficklin may save something from the wreck. I hope so. I can do no more, and perhaps—nay, certainly—the best thing I can do for you is to leave you. May God help you since I cannot. Your shamed and unhappy father.

GEOFFREY WILBERFORCE.

Post Scriptum—The last thing that I possess is this scrap of parchment. It has been handed down from father to son for five generations. The tradition of it is lost, but there has always been attached to it a singular value. Perhaps some day the missing part may turn up. At any rate, of all that I once had this is left. Should you marry and have children pass it to them. A foolish request, but I am moved to make it as my father made it to me.

G. W.

I read it slowly. It was not a brave man's letter. I liked Sir Geoffrey less than than ever before. Some of the ancient awe and reverence I felt for the family went out of my heart then.

"Here," said I, "is the inclosure to which your father refers."

She took it listlessly, but as her glance fell upon it her face brightened.

"Why," she exclaimed, brushing aside her tears, "I have the other half. It came to me from my mother. When she died, five years ago, she gave it to me with much the same account as my father gives. I have never shown it to any one—never mentioned it even."

"Why not?" I asked.

"I scarcely know. It was valueless I attached no special importance to it. But now, now—"

"It is a miracle," I said, "that the two pieces should have come together in your hands."

"I don't yet understand what it all means," she said, "but—"

"Meanwhile," said I, "may I respectfully suggest that you get the other piece and let me look at it."

"You!" she flashed out in one of those sudden changes of mood, sometimes so delightful and sometimes the reverse.

To be continued.

APPLES ROTTING ON THE GROUND

Yet People in City Pay Exorbitant Prices.

SOMETHING RADICALLY WRONG

This is the Conclusion Dr. Hurty, Secretary of the State Board of Health, Reaches When He Pays 15 Cents for Nine Apples After Returning From Trip in Country, Where He Sees Fruit Going to Waste.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—Indianapolis persons want to pay high prices for foodstuffs. That was the conclusion Dr. J. N. Hurty reached after visiting Boone county, where he saw apples and other fruit being fed to hogs or allowed to rot on the ground and heard farmers tell of their experiences with Indianapolis commission men.

"I paid 15 cents for nine apples, yet hundreds of bushels are going to waste in the country within a few miles of Indianapolis," said Dr. Hurty after returning from an automobile spin through the country. "A farmer told me that he had allowed 150 bushels of apples to rot because it was cheaper to leave them on the ground than to sell them in Indianapolis through commission merchants. He said he had apples to give away or to sell cheap to those who came after them, but that it was too costly to send them to the local market."

"A farmer living near Whitestown told me the same story. He had trees loaded down with sugar pears, but he said that he would lose money if he sold them in Indianapolis. He said the commission men get the profit and that he would be lucky if he received enough money to pay the freight. Something is radically wrong when we have to pay such exorbitant prices in the city while apples, plums and pears are going to waste within a few miles of us," concluded the doctor.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S BODY REACHES HOME SHORE

New York Busy With Preparations for Funeral.

New York, Sept. 19.—Bearing the body of Mayor Gaynor, the steamship Lusitania arrived off the bay at midnight. Rufus Gaynor, son of the late mayor, kept the committee in charge of the funeral arrangements here informed of the progress of the vessel through wireless dispatches. Arrangements as planned by the committee appointed by Mayor Kline were transmitted to the son by wireless and he replied they were satisfactory to him. Shortly before daybreak this morning the mayor's body was transferred from the Lusitania at quarantine, five traffic policemen and five firemen acting as pall bearers. The undertaker's men then opened the leaden casket and placed the body in a bronze casket, which was encased in a solid mahogany casket. The body then was transferred to the late mayor's city home at 20 Eighth avenue, where it will be left with Mr. Gaynor's family until evening. This afternoon a funeral ceremony for the family and the immediate friends was held at the house, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Frank W. Page, formerly rector of St. John's Episcopal church in Brooklyn. Late tomorrow afternoon the body will be taken to the city hall and will be placed on a platform under the dome. The doors of the city hall will be thrown open to the public at 8 o'clock Sunday morning and the body will lie in state and be open to public view until sunset. At sunset the casket will be closed and sealed, and Monday morning the procession will leave the city hall for Trinity church, where public services will be conducted by Bishop Greer. The body will be buried in Greenwood cemetery.

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED

Boonville Young Man Victim of Young Woman's Heedless Shot.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Mary Wright, aged twenty, shot Christian Barclay, aged twenty-five, of Boonville, Ind., in this city. Miss Wright, who recently came here from Morganfield, Ky., operates a shooting gallery in lower Main street. Barclay was in her gallery and shot several times. Miss Wright picked up a rifle which she says she thought was unloaded, and, pointing at Barclay, said, "I am going to shoot you." She pulled the trigger and the ball struck Barclay in the forehead, entering the brain. The Wright girl was arrested.

Found Guilty of Bigamy.
 Owensville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Lige Anderson, thirty-two years old, who formerly lived west of Owensville, and who deserted his wife and five children and went to Fairgrove, Mich., where he married Miss Mary Laib, a school teacher, was found guilty on a charge of bigamy filed against him by the father of wife No. 2, and was sentenced to prison for from two to five years.

FAKE DENTIST IS A COUSIN OF SCHMIDT

This Is the News That Comes From Germany.

New York, Sept. 19.—Investigation there, says a cable dispatch from Aschaffenburg, Germany, indicates that Ernest A. Muret, under arrest here as a counterfeiter, and an accomplice of Hans Schmidt, slayer of Anna Aumuller, is Adolph Mueller of Mainz, Germany, and a cousin of Schmidt.

Schmidt, the priest, and Muret, the doctor, say the Aschaffenburg authorities, occupied themselves a great deal in Germany several years ago with hypnotism and spiritualistic seances. They had a quarrel and were bitter enemies for a time, but were reconciled before Father Schmidt left for America.

This word from Germany offsets Schmidt's statement that he had known Muret only ten months. The killer of Anna Aumuller says he quarreled with Muret last month. Muret, in a note from his cell in the Tombs, said:

"Schmidt and I quarreled in August, when we practically parted. Schmidt began then already to show signs that St. Elizabeth was with him, and he wanted to become a second Jesus. I called him crazy and he got sore at me."

The priest, or priest-impostor, has said that St. Elizabeth ordained him and ordered him to kill the rectory girl who loved him. Schmidt will be brought to trial for the girl's murder next month. His defense will be insanity because that is the "only possible defense," according to his lawyer.

"How could there be any other defense?" demanded this lawyer, after interviewing Schmidt. "The man confesses right and left to everything he's accused of."

The police have discovered a fourth flat which Schmidt used in his crime operations. It was at 124 West Eighty-fourth street, and Mrs. Hander, who rented it to Schmidt, is worrying because she forgot to tell Inspector Faurot that when Schmidt came to this flat he sometimes brought with him a two-year-old boy. Whose boy it was that the priest, masquerading as a travelling salesman, took with him to this place the landlady had no idea. She supposed it was his own baby. Schmidt took the rooms under one of his favorite aliases, "A. Van Dyke." He first appeared in January last and hired the flat for two weeks, paying $2 a week. He came there in the daytime only.

Fatal Motorcycle Accident.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Edward Grimes, aged sixteen, was instantly killed when run down at a street corner by an interurban car. Grimes did not see the approaching car in time to stop. He turned his motorcycle to the right and it skidded, throwing him under the car.

and of material that will give the best of road service. That is the kind we have on our sample floor for you to look at and it is your fault if you do not see them. They are three inches wider on the seat than any other sliding door storm buggy you will find and they are one of the neatest, well proportioned vehicles ever built. They are built to our own special specifications and are built for solid comfort and long wear. They are so proportioned that they do not have that too heavy appearance that so many storm buggies have, and it would be almost impossible to upset one of them.

We also have a nice line of Storm Buggies for the young folk—not so wide, you know, as they don't need the room—and in fact we can show you a storm buggy to fill your requirements, if it is built, as we have every style that is on the market and at prices that will pay you to investigate.

Moore's Hill college, feared that if the report was current that the Methodist schools might be united, the endowment campaign of his institution might be damaged. Half of the endowment of $200,000 has already been raised.

Dr. A. B. Storms of the Central Avenue church, Indianapolis, in advocating, as chairman, the adoption of the report of the permanent conference home committee, explained that the conference might adopt all or any part of the report. He said he did not wish to appear as the advocate of a pet scheme. He declared the recommendations of the report were not radical because the committee had avoided the radical suggestions made. He reported that secretaries of conferences, which have tried the plan advocated in the report that churches had fallen in line with the idea readily.

He pointed out that the conference is increasing in size and that homes are dwarfing, the guest chambers are disappearing and people are living in smaller houses because of the increased cost of living. Dr. Storms asserted that the hospitality was not disappearing, and that under the plan of his committee it would be conserved. The home might still be thrown open under the conference bureau management, he said. Dr. Storms declared the voting of 1 per cent. from each church for conference entertainment would make it possible for the wives to attend each session. He said they should be present at every conference because of the good they could derive from it, and the next moment declared that he was not criticizing any church because the condition which has arrived is inevitable.

Dr. Albert Hulstone of Roberts Park church, Indianapolis, in mending Dr. Storms' motion and providing for the receiving of the report but not the adoption of it, termed the conference bureau provided for in the report a clumsy and unnecessary organization. He said the cabinet performs the same function. Dr. Hulstone declared he liked the idea of the conference deciding where it shall meet. He declared the tax of 1 per cent. unfair and the clause providing for the making of the program clumsy. He declared the conference did not need any extra machinery.

The Rev. J. H. Dodderidge of Jeffersonville concurred in the amendment. Dr. Storms asked the report not be sidetracked, because the committee had been at work a year investigating the situation and the conference had had ample time to consider it. Dr. J. W. Duncan of Capitol Avenue church, Indianapolis, asked the substitution of a motion providing that the committee be continued for a year. He said it would be a discourtesy not to continue the committee.

The amendment providing the report be received and published prevailed, 117 to 29, and the motion to adopt was lost. Mr. Duncan's substitute motion to continue the committee was withdrawn and a similar motion put and carried.

The class of eleven young ministers which was graduated from the second year of the course of study and ordained as ministers this morning included the following: Oliver M. Deal, Joseph G. Moore, Willard C. Patrick, Lewis F. Ulmer, Charles E. Smith, Joseph G. Grimes, G. Lemuel Conway, Wallace E. Fisher, Carl F. Glick, A. J. Spaulding and Fred A. Krackhardt.

The class which was elected to Elder's Orders, having completed the four year's course of study, included: Herbert A. Brodwell, Valentine Deich, James A. Gardner, George B. Marlison, John M. Hinkle, Eugene T. Lewis, Albert Z. Mann, Samuel H. Caylor, John R. French, Oscar Jean, Ralph W. Rogers and Golden A. Smith.

In addressing the class which was ordained, Bishop Anderson said it was some times the duty of the preacher to come with the surgeon's knife in the community, but he warned them to be tactful and careful. When a minister is denouncing sin, the bishop declared, he is not preaching the Gospel; he is only on the defensive. Hold before your hearers, he exhort-

A LITTLE READY MONEY

MEANS much to the man or woman who must earn their own living. The need of it is always present: now and then it is needed very badly. Sickness or accident may stop your earnings for a while. You may want money to build a home, or to take advantage of a good investment. Opportunities often come to the man with ready money. It is the only sure protection against poverty or want.

HOW TO GET IT

BY saving a little every month. It isn't what you earn, but what you save—which increases your fund of wealth. Strange as it may seem, it is the wage earners of this country who save the most money. The wage earner works hard for what he gets and he knows its value. As the years slip by, they bring around a time when his power to earn grows less and his need of money grows more. That time will surely come in the life of each one of us.
